MRS. HOPE MAY HEAD STATE FEDERATION

Sunday's issue of the Oklahoman contained a large cut of Mrs. Tom Hope and the following very complimentary notice:

"The friends over the state of Mrs. Tom Hope, of Ada, Okla., are urging her to permit her name to be presented for nomination as president of the Oklahoma State Federation of Women's clubs at the next state convention which will be held in Tulsa in November.

"When asked if she would accept the nomination, Mrs. Hope replied, 'If the club women wish me to serve them, I believe I am capable of filling that office, and I shall not disappoint them in doing all within my power for the best interests of the federation. There are so many capable women in our great state, however, that I feel there might be others who could do more than I, and great as I would appreciate the honor, I could not let personal ambition stand in the way of the interests of the general federation. Hence, I do not allow myself to think of the delight of being the head of so great an organization.'

"Mrs. Hope is one of the most popular women in the state and has taken an active part in club work in Oklahoma for the past twenty years. She was a member of Indian Territory Federation before amalgamation, and was for two years treasurer of that organization. She was vice president of that federation and president of the fourth district. She is now treasurer of the State Federation. For twelve years she has been president of the Twentieth Century Club of Ada.

"Mrs. Hope writes some poetry and is the author of a number of short stories. She is a graduate of Kidd-Key college, Sherman, Texas, and of the Sam Houston State Normal school of Texas. She has been called the orator of the state executive board. Her toasts, given at meetings of the board have made happy hits. They are always in rhyme."

NOTED LINGUIST AIDING TULSA DRY FARMING CONGRESS

Tulsa, Ok., Sept. 2.—The work of the International Entertainment Committee of the Dry-Farming Congress is increasing as the dates for the big exposition draw near. Correspondence with foreign countries and the American representatives of these nations is occupying a great deal of time and not without surprising results.

A. A. Rutis, for twelve years counsel general from Persia to the states of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, is chairman of the International Entertainment Committee. Dr. Frederick W. Hawley, president of the Henry Kendall College, is vice chairman. Mr. Rutis is perhaps the greatest linguist in Oklahoma, he being a graduate in nearly a dozen languages. He is therefore a valuable asset to the Dry-Farming Congress in transacting business with the nations of the world.

Mr. Rutis handles fluently the French, German, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, Danish, Scandinavian and Russian languages. With the use of these he is enabled to translate all the correspondence from foreign countries and reply in the native language of the respective nations.

The International Entertainment committee is one of the most important that has to do with the affairs of the Congress. It is this committee that will entertain the delegates of all foreign nations, prominent government and state officials and other celebrities who attend the congress. And it is the first time in the history of the congress that the committee in charge of this work has boasted of a member who could converse freely in the languages of the world.

A program of luncheons, receptions and entertainments will be arranged for the foreign visitors.

Famous Horses Under the Hammer.

New York, Sept. 2.—Many noted breeders and owners of fast horses came to town today to attend the dispersal sale of the entire Castleton study of the late James R. Keene. The sale is regarded as one of the most important of its kind ever conducted in this country. Among the horses to go under the hammer are some of the greatest sires the American turf has ever known. Heading the list are the two famous race horses, Collin and Peter Pan, sons of the great Commando.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

MAN AT TISHOMINGO ACCUSED OF BURNING WIFE AND DAUGHTER IN HOUSE.

Tishomingo, Okla., Sept. 2.—In a fire which destroyed the family home at 6 o'clock Saturday morning, Mrs. W. A. Borah, and her daughter, Gwendolyn, 12 years of age, lost their lives, and W. A. Borah, husband and father was arrested, charged with having started the fire for the purpose of killing the family.

Immediately after the fire, because of strong evidence that the fire was of incendiary origin, a mob of about fifty citizens was formed and attempted to get hold of Mr. Borah. He was taken in charge by City Marshal J. B. Hutchens, whisked into an automobile and taken from the city immediately by the sheriff of Johnston county.

The fire department succeeded in quenching the fire before the house was fully destroyed and when it was entered, the body of Mrs. Borah was found in bed, while that of the little girl was lying on the floor. The body of the mother was not badly charred, and her tongue was hanging from her mouth as if she had been choked or poisoned. Indications were that she had not moved after the fire was started. Her hair was singed and her breast charred, but that part of her body next to the bedding was not badly burned.

The body of the little girl was badly charred and hardly enough remained to determine whether she was killed by the flames or before the fire was started.

Soon after daylight, Borah appeared upon the balcony of the home in his nightclothes, shouting for help. Flames were bursting from every window of the house. Neighbors appeared and he was helped to the ground where he wandered about, wringing his hands and moaning about the loss of the home. When asked about his wife and child he stated at first, it is said, that he did not know where they were, but he later admitted that they were in the house.

He then cried out for someone to rescue the victims of the flames, but only their bodies were recovered from the ruins.

Borah after the fire was placed under control went to the home of a neighbor to don some clothes. It then was discovered, according to the city marshal, that his nightclothes were saturated with coal oil and when the house was entered the marshal states that the walls and furniture showed evidence of having been saturated. Borah stated he had been sleeping in a separate room but evidence showed he had occupied the bed with his wife.

A coroner's jury was immediately summoned which found that Borah was responsible for the deaths of the woman and child and a charge of murder was placed against him.

The sheriff with Borah went north from Tishomingo to Pennington, thence west to Davis and south on the Santa Fe railroad to Ardmore. Whether Borah was placed in the Carter county jail at that point is not known. For the past four or five years the Borahs practically have been separated, and Borah has been living at Sapulpa, coming home only once in each four or five months. His alleged conduct in Sapulpa has been the subject of much comment by Tishomingo citizens who have seen him there and been acquainted with his habits.

Borah supposedly was in the real estate business with W. C. Wells, whose home was burned here also under suspicious circumstances last Saturday night. Wells and his wife also were separated, the wife living in the home. She was away at the time of the fire, which in the opinion of City Marshal Hutchens was of incendiary origin. State Fire Marshal C. C. Hammond is expected to arrive in Tishomingo Sunday to investigate both fires.

The stomach, heart and lungs of Mrs. Borah were removed here at the order of the coroner and will be sent to the state chemist at Norman for analysis and determination of the real cause of her death.

Mrs. Borah's father lives in Kentucky and she was notified immediately of the tragedy. The bodies of the woman and child are held in a local undertaking establishment awaiting Quinton is evidently the most harmonious town in Oklahoma. At a recent school election 206 votes were cast for an additional levy of five mills and not a vote against it. What has gone with the knockers of that place, anyway?

Young Diaz has announced his candidacy for the presidency of Mexico. However, he waited until he was across the water and well out of reach of Huerta's guns before he dared to do so. In Mexico the man with the bayonets is the only one who makes the race, and the long distance campaign of Diaz will be nothing more than a big joke.

The announcement that the last wild cat still in the Ozarks has been located and destroyed by revenue officers will likely have the effect of bringing in a few dozen new ones. The moonshiners can't afford to pass up a promising field like that.

Some of the papers refer to Wm. T. Jerome as "Thaw's Nemesis." We always thought that Nemesis was a female, or rather was when the deities of Greece and Rome held sway, but perhaps in these modern days there are some male specimens. However, the original Nemesis usually picked bigger game than Thaw on whose trail to camp.

TRAGEDY NEAR JESSE

J. N. ROSS, WELL KNOWN CITIZEN, SHOT AND KILLED SATURDAY
BY JIM WILEY.

About 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, J. N. Ross, living near Burrow in the extreme southeastern corner of Pontotoc county, was shot and killed by Jim Wiley, a tenant on his place. Wiley is said to have fired five or six shots, three of which passed through the body and one through head of deceased, killing him instantly.

The killing took place on the place occupied by Wiley and with the possible exception of his wife, there were no eye witnesses to the tragedy, and at the inquest held Sunday very little light was shed on it.

It is said that the two men had been on the best of terms and that Wiley had rented the place from Ross for another year. A few nights before the killing some one had posted a notice on Wiley's place ordering him to leave the country in ten days. Although it cannot be stated as a fact, some think that had something to do with starting the trouble.

It is understood that Wiley claims self defense, and showed a place on the left shoulder of his shirt that looked as if it had been cut with a knife. Wiley surrendered himself to Mars Jamison, who brought him to Ada Sunday morning. The preliminary hearing will probably be held before Justice Denton at Stonewall the latter part of the week.

Deputy County Attorney Croxton and Sheriff Mitchell went to Stonewall immediately after hearing of the tragedy and with Deputy Sheriff Chandler conducted an investigation of the case. Sunday a coroner's jury was empanelled by Justice J. W. Denton, which returned a verdict to the effect that deceased came to his death at the hands of Jim Wiley.

DRILLING FOR

OIL NEAR ALLEN

M. B. Donaghey reports that the first oil well in the Allen field has begun drilling and has gone down to a depth of sixty feet. The drilling has been interfered with by quick sand but a supply of casing has arrived and will be placed at once. Mr. Donaghey is much encouraged by the business-like manner in which the operators are taking hold of the drilling and is very sanguine over the final outcome.

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR

CIDER DISPENSERS

For sometime past it has been a mooted question whether or not the cider being sold at Ada and other places in Pontotoc county is intoxicating and comes under the ban of the prohibition law. The county officials finally had some samples analyzed by the state chemist and as a result found that the cider contained from ten to twenty per cent alcohol. Deputy County Attorney Croxton states that hereafter all dealers in this cider may expect vigorous prosecution if they persist in selling it. Not only that but Deputy U. S. Marshal Whaley was in Ada Monday and made the same statement on behalf of the federal authorities. Evidently there is a rocky time ahead for any who attempt to dispense cider.

DR. CARRICK INSPECTING CLEAN TOWNS OF TEXAS

The inspection of the various cities in Holland's Magazine' clean town contest has begun and in a short time will probably be completed. The first places to be given attention are the Texas towns. Dr. Carrick, the inspector was at Brownwood a few days ago, and pronounced that enterprising place in better condition than a year ago when it was awarded first prize for the state. From Brownwood he went to Ballinger and San Antonio, which are also in the contest.

Evidently the ladies of Brownwood did most of the work, just as they did in Ada, for in his report Dr. Carrick says:

"To the ladies of the town is due a great deal of honor for the unselfish way in which the yhave worked for Brownwood's advancement. The work they have done, without cost, would have cost $10,000 if pay had been demanded. As a result of their effort I find several homes in Brownwood scoring as high as 100 per cent."

The WOMAN

A Novel by

Good night. I'll stay with father until you can decide just what you want to do and on what basis we're to separate. If it would do any good to ask your forgiveness I'd ask it. That's all. Good night, Mark."

She held out her hand with a shy wistfulness. He was staring straight into her tortured eyes and did not see the gesture. The hand dropped back limply to her side, and she moved to rejoin Blake.

But at the first step, Mark barred her way. She looked at him in tired wonder. His face was set and hard. He made no move to touch her. His voice, when he spoke, grated like a file, as he forced it between his unwilling lips.

"Grace," he began, "I've told you my love is dead. And I lied when I said it. I planned to put you out of my life. And, even while I planned, I knew I couldn't do it. It doesn't matter what I want to do or what I ought to do. Out of all this hideous tangle, blazes forth just one thing that I must do whether I want to or not. I must go on loving you with all my strength and life."

"Do you mean," she panted wildly, "do you mean that you can—that you will—"

"I mean," he cried brokenly, his self-control smashing to atoms under the hammer blows of his heart, "I mean there is nothing in all this world for me, dear love, away from you! I love you. And I can't go on without you. You are earth and heaven and hell to me. I love you. And I have forgotten everything but that. Girl of my heart, will you let me make you forget, too? Oh, I love you! I love you!"

CHAPTER XXIII.

The Victor?

"They didn't seem exactly to be hankering after my society in there," observed Wanda Kelly, "so I came back."

Jim Blake turned from the window at sound of the telephone girl's purposely raised voice. Just within the threshold from the inner rooms of the suite, Wanda, with elaborate care, was shutting the door behind her.

Blake glanced quickly about the room.

"Yes," said Wanda, answering the question in his look and jerking her pretty head back in the direction of the rooms she had just quitted. "In there. I wouldn't worry if I were you."

Jim Blake's grim face took on a light as incongruous as the play of sunset rays on a mummy. The mask of age and defeat seemed to melt beneath it. He took an eager step toward the inner door.

"Just a minute," Wanda halted him. "You asked me to wait. If you don't need me here any longer—"

"Yes," hesitated Blake, trouble flitting across the new light in his eyes. "I wanted to ask you—to not to let Tom know about this. His sister—"

"I'll never tell him," she promised. "I sent him away so he wouldn't find out."

"You're white, clear through," grudgingly admitted Blake. "Will you do one thing more?"

"What?"

"Bring him back to me."

"If I meet him again," she assented primly, "I'll send—"

"I didn't say 'send,'" corrected Blake, "I said 'bring.'"

"That's different. I—"

"I'm out of politics. My own game has broken me at last. I'm old. I know it now. I never did till tonight. I'm old and I want my children around me."

"I'll tell Tom," she agreed, softened despite herself by the new suppleness in a voice that had never before been turned to the uses of entreaty. "I'll tell him. I'm sure he'll come back to you—when he understands. Good night, Mr. Blake."

"There's another thing," he broke in roughly, staying her departure, "a thing that isn't easy to say."

"Then, why say it?"

"Because," he growled, "like all things that aren't easy to say, it's a thing that's got to be said. Miss Kelly, hasn't tonight pretty nearly squared the old debt between you and me? You and yours have suffered a lot at my hands. But, after what's happened here this evening, I guess you'll admit, as far as suffering goes, you haven't got much on me. Haven't I paid? Won't you say we're square?"

"We're—we're square, Mr. Blake," she returned in a tone she could not make wholly steady nor impersonal.

"And," pursued Blake, "and—Tom?"

"That's different, too," she faltered. "I—"

The jangle of the telephone interrupted her. Blake, who was beside the desk, picked up the instrument. "Hello," he called into the transmitter. "To—yes—she's here. Who wants her? Oh! Yes, put him on this wire."

He lowered the telephone. "Some one to speak to you, Miss Kelly," he reported. Mechanically, she took up the receiver, and, by long habit, her voice took its professional drone: "Hello!" she called. Then, turning on Blake, in surprise she cried: "Why, it's Tom!"

"Yes," drawled Blake. "So I gathered from the name. I'm glad. Glad clear down to the ground. For both of you. Tell him so, won't you?"

The winter sun was butting its way over the eastern sky-line. The dawn was bitter-cold, mercilessly clear.

And into the track of the first white glittering rays walked a tired man. A man who that night had won a mighty victory. A victory that foreshadowed the richest gifts his country could bestow. Before him the future stretched bright as that winter's dawn. As dazlingly brilliant, and as cold and starkly empty.

In Matthew Standish's ears, as he returned toward the loveless abode that he hated to call home, still rang echoes of the pandemonium that had broken loose in the house when the Mullins bill had gone down to defeat. His arms still ached from the pump-handling a host of shrieking admirers had forced on him.

"There is only one lasting victory," he muttered disjunctively to himself, as he moved onward in the dazzling ice-cold trail of light. "At the last, it won't be the world's applause that the world's great men will remember. It will be the love smile of a Woman. And—I shall never have known that memory. What is the rest worth?" (THE END.)

Friends of Dr. Sam A. Steel, and they are legion in Brownwood, will be pleased to know that he is again engaged in the pastoral work, and that he is meeting with success. Dr. Steel, after leaving Brownwood was serving as president of a girls college in Tennessee, but the Bishop needed him in pastoral work, so placed him at Columbus, S. C., where he has one of the largest charges in the city. Dr. Steel will always have a warm place in the hearts of Brownwood people, and the fact that he still owns property here, permits us to indulge in the hope that he some day contemplates returning to Brownwood to make this his permanent home.—Brownwood (Tex.) Bulletin.

Grandma Talks About Babies

Has a large Circle of Listeners Who Profit by Her Wisdom and Experience.

In almost any settled community there's a grandma who knows Mother's Friend.
Not only is she reminiscent of her own experience, but it was through her recommendation that so many young, expectant mothers derived the comfort and blessing of this famous remedy.

Mother's Friend is applied externally to the abdomen, stomach and breasts, allays all pain, avoids all nausea, and prevents caking of the breasts.

It is quickly and wonderfully penetrating, permits the muscles to expand without the strain on the ligaments, and prepares the system so thoroughly that the crisis is passed almost without the slightest distress. Thus there need be no such thing as dread or fear,
No better nor more cheering advice can be given the expectant mother than to suggest the use of Mother's Friend. She will take courage from the beginning. The days will be cheerful, the nights restful. Thus the health is preserved, the mind is in repose and the period is an unending one of quiet, joyful anticipation.

You can obtain Mother's Friend of any druggist at $1.00 a bottle. Do not forget nor neglect to be supplied with this greatest remedy ever devised for motherhood. It is unfailing. Write at once to Bradfield Regulator Co., 133 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their very interesting and instructive
book of advice for expectant mothers.

Bouquet for Commissioner Henry Kroth.

The editor of the News had a pleasant surprise on last Friday when Mr.
Henry Kroth, county commissioner of Ada district called at the News office. Mr. Kroth was returning from Lulu where he had been looking after some bridges, and also looking after a bridge that will be built on the road from here to Ada near the Union Valley school house. Pontotoc county did not make a mistake when they selected him to fill the office of County Commissioner. Mr. Kroth is one of the ablest county commissioners in Oklahoma; he never shirks
a duty and looks after the county's interest just as he looks after his own. He is a self-made man and no one stands higher in his district than he, and that district will make no mistake in re-electing him for the second term.—Stonewall News.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

Some of the out of town teachers have already arrived to get things in readiness for the opening of school next Monday. All of them are expected to be here by Friday night of this week and a general teachers meeting will be held at the High school building Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

In view of the fact that the school book question will be settled in the supreme court of the state some time next week, the Board of Education of the city has thought it wise to require no purchase of books until the case is settled. Pupils are asked to bring all of their old books and in no case to purchase a book until instructed to do so by those in authority. We can get along very well for the first few days without any extra books as a number of the old books are included in the 1912 adoption.

The Athletic Association of the high school has placed a row of electric lights from the main entrance of the building to the walk. This lights up the whole front of the campus and will furnish light for open air social meetings of patrons and students of the schools and will enable the students to practice basket ball of evenings. Prof. Shipp has arranged for a general meeting of patrons and students on the campus Friday evening.
The grounds will be lighted up and a program rendered after which the boys will play a game of basket ball.
The program will be printed later in the week.

Prof. Floyd is arranging for a similar meeting at the Irving building
some time in the near future.

The sub-district boundary lines will be changed some this year in order that the attendance at the different ward schools may be properly regulated. This will be published before the opening of school.

LAST OF WALKER'S MEN PASSES AWAY

Another of the old landmarks of the citizenship of Pontotoc county was removed when W. L. Cochran died at his home at Stonewall Friday evening about 8 o'clock.

Mr. Cochran was at least 85 years old, and during his long life had had many varied experiences. He was probably the last survivor of one of Walker's ill-fated expeditions to Nicaragua in the early 50's and in the disastrous battle which marked the end of the expedition suffered a severe wound on the leg. For three days he lay without any attention whatever and was then taken to New Orleans before the member could be amputated. After his recovery he came to this part of Oklahoma and most of his life after that was spent at Frisco and Stonewall, devoting his attention to merchandising and stock raising. During the civil war he was clerk to the adjutant of the Choctaw regiment.

Fe women ever lived in Oklahoma who held the confidence and esteem of all who knew him to the extent enjoyed by Mr. Cochran. With a big heart and generous nature he extended a helping hand to many a man whose luck was against him.

T. E. GRAHAM'S HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

About 9 o'clock this morning the residence of T. E. Graham at the extreme end of East 6th street was totally destroyed by fire. The neighbors turned out and managed to save some of the furniture but the fire had made too much progress to be checked.

It is said to have originated in a storage closet where a considerable quantity of clothing was put away and where also there were some boxes of matches. It is supposed that a mouse had fired one of these. One report stated that the fire was from a smudge placed in the garret to drive out mosquitoes, but a hasty trip to that point showed that the fire did not start there.

It is reported that there was only about $750 insurance on the house and none on the furniture. Mr. Graham is at Booneville, Ark., on a business trip but his family was at home.

Owing to a misunderstanding of the location of the fire when the alarm was turned in the fire company first made a long run to West 6th in North Ada before locating the fire.
